

Indian J. Trop. Biodiv. 21(1&2) : 143-144 (2013)
© Society for Promotion of Tropical Biodiversity, Jabalpur

RECORD OF ELATERID, AGRYPNUS FUSCIPES (FABRICIUS) FROM MAHARASHTRA AND POTENTIALITY AS PREDATOR ON WHITE GRUBS OF *HOLOTRICHIA RUSTICA

NITIN KULKARNI¹, SANJAY PAUNIKAR AND RAM BHAJAN SINGH

*Forest Entomology Division
Tropical Forest Research Institute
Jabalpur (M.P.) 482021*

¹*Corresponding author: kulkarnin@icfre.org*

ABSTRACT: White grubs are one of the most important and notorious insect pests of forestry, agricultural and horticultural crops across the world. The paper reports predatory potential of A. fuscipes collected from the nurseries of central India on white grubs calculated their consumption rate on daily basis as a first detailed report.

Keywords: White grubs, forest insect pests, predatory grubs, IPM